Hinman members should adhere to Hinman's high standards in any media publication:

Advertising. Hinman members are encouraged to advertise informationally only.

Informational advertising is the use of information that only pertains to the advertiser and does not refer to any other service provider.

This type of advertisement either informs the selected market of who the advertiser is, the advertiser's location, telephone number and website and the services available from the advertiser, or it communicates general information regarding the services to educate the target audience.

Comparable advertising is the use of comparisons between the advertiser and others in the same market. These are usually seen as statements of quality or superiority. These ads promote the impression that the dentist or his/her facility is superior to or better than other dentists.

Competitive advertising typically involves the use of a discount price or coupon, the offering of more services for the same price, or the offering of the same product or service for less cost than others in the same market. This type of advertising is usually seen in the offering of discount coupons, discount fees, or free services.
